Rajaton returns to St. John's for Jan. 29 show

On Tuesday, Jan. 29, 2019, world-renowned vocal ensemble Rajaton will hit the Holy Heart Theatre stage to once again wow local fans with a wide ranging repertoire of a cappella music.

Rajaton was featured at Festival 500 in 2001, where the group captivated audiences and had an extraordinary impact on the local community, forging lasting friendships with St. John's musicians, including members of Lady Cove Women's Choir, hosts for this Rajaton performance.

Rajaton member Essi Wuorela reflected on her 2001 visit to Newfoundland, noting the warmth she encountered during her stay.

"Rajaton is thrilled to return to the Rock and we're so looking forward to meeting our great friends and hoping to find some new as well," said Ms. Wuorela. "We feel such a strong connection to this beautiful and special spot on earth, the warmth and hospitality people have offered to us and the strong commitment to singing makes it feel like we are privileged to be invited to come and sing! We are also proud to be performing with our new member Aili Ikonen, who has had a career as a jazz singer as well as folk performer in Finland."

Tickets are selling fast and can be purchased by phone, online or in person at Holy Heart Theatre box office.

Regular tickets are $50 each plus box office surcharge, with limited balcony seats available for $25 each plus box office surcharge. Showtime is 7:30 pm.
